From Richmond.

Telegraphed Expressly for the Bulletin.]

RICHMOND, April 8, 1862.

There is no news from the Peninsula to-day. It is believed here that there has been no fighting since yesterday.

GREENE.

[SECOND DISPATCH.]

RICHMOND, April 8.

The President sent a message to Congress to-day, announcing a glorious and decisive victory near Pittsburg, Miss., over our invaders. He says that, after a hard fought battle of ten hours, the enemy were driven, in disorder, to the Tennessee river, where, under cover of their gunboats, at last accounts, they were endeavoring to effect a retreat by the aid of transports. He says we may well conclude that one common spirit of unflinching bravery and devotion to our country's cause animated the breasts of our men. We must continue our exertions until the enemy acknowledges our right to self-government.

The President deplores the loss of Gen. A. S. Johnston, and says it is irreparable; that among the shining host of great and good men who cluster around the banner of our country, there exists no purer spirit, no more heroic soul, than that illustrious man, whose death I join you in commemorating.

A dispatch from Col. Preston, says: A mine ball cut the artery of Johnston's leg, but he rode on till, from loss of blood, he fell exhausted, and died without much pain. His body will be taken to New Orleans.

Congress has adopted Resolutions to the effect that it has received "with gratitude to the Divine Ruler of Nations," intelligence of a great, complete, and brilliant victory gained by our army in Tennessee, and tendered its thanks to Gen. Beauregard, and all the other surviving officers and privates of that army for their signal exhibition of skill and gallantry. All are entitled to the gratitude of their country.

The third Resolution declares that the death of Gen. A. S. Johnston affects Congress with profound sorrow, and obscures the general joy with a shade of sadness, for he was an officer both able, skillful and gallant.

Confederate States of America.

WAR DEPT., ORDNANCE OFFICE,

RICHMOND, March 3, 1862.

Bids will be received at this office until the 15th day of April next, for the following Ordnance and Ordnance material for the Confederate States army:

200 tons charcoal cold blast Pig Iron, 50,000 tons Blooms, (charcoal) 50,000 tons wrought Iron Bars of various sizes,

100 10-inch Columbiads,

100 8-inch Columbiads,

100 10 inch Siege and Garrison Mortars,

100 13-inch Sea-coast Mortars,

500 12-pounder Iron Howitzers,

500 6-pounder Iron Field guns.

Bids may be made for any quantity of iron over one-hundred tons, and for any number of guns over ten.

Drawings of the guns will be furnished only to parties who bids are accepted.

Bidders will state the points of delivery, and the date at which not less than one hundred tons of iron may be expected to be furnished.

They must also state the time required to furnish the whole of their bid.

Bidders for guns will state the date of the first delivery, and the time required to supply the whole number.

Payments will be made on delivery of not less than fifty tons of iron, and the right to pay one-half in Confederate bonds is reserved.

Bids must be sealed and enclosed, and endorsed on the envelope "Proposals for Iron," or "Proposals for Guns," as the case may be. J. GORGAS, Lt Col, Chief of Ordnance.

Executive Department of North Carolina.

ADJUTANT GEN'L'S. OFFICE,

Raleigh, March 22d, 1862.

GENERAL ORDER, No. 5.

ALL NEW COMPANIES OF N. C. VOLUNTEERS must be tendered directly to the State, otherwise the bounty authorized by the ordinance of the Convention to raise North Carolina's quota of troops will not be paid to them, as the law does not allow it. The Companies so tendered will be organized into Regiments by the State, the commissioned officers of which elect their field officers. The bounty will be paid each Company as soon as possible after their arrival in Camp.

II. No order of rank of Regiments or Battalions will be recognized unless the same is done by authority of the State and in compliance with its laws.

III. These Troops being raised for immediate field service should have no more baggage than each man can carry in his knapsack. It is desirable that each man bring a blanket (if he can furnish it,) any additional articles must necessarily be lost if brought.

IV. All communications on Military matters must be sent to this Office. In no other way will they receive immediate attention.

By order of Governor CRAVEN,

J. G. MARTIN, Adjutant General.

Particular Attention!

have large reinforcements, which will be sent forward as soon as it can practically be done.

It is believed that Gen. Wm. C. of Ellington, Tenn., commands the forces in this part of Ky.

The health of our Regiment is improving rapidly. Will you again give us in a few days, and tell us all about the removal of the attack, that is, if we have any.

As ever, yours truly,

W. F. PARKER, Lt.

CHARLOTTE.
